

PAY-UP CAMPAIGN IS LAUNCHED HERE

Number of Merchants Declare That Bills Are Being Settled as Result of Movement.

CUSTOMERS APPROVE PLAN

Purpose of Movement is to Encourage Payment of Bills Resulting From Credit System.

National Pay-up Week was inaugurated here today and the merchants are highly pleased with the first returns resulting from the general request that all outstanding bills be paid before Saturday night. The movement extends throughout the United States and has been endorsed by the dealers in hundreds of cities. It has been proposed that Pay-up Week become an annual event as it is believed that with a little special efforts thousands of dollars worth of bills which have been carried from week to week by the business men could be paid.

One prominent merchant said today that as the result of his efforts in connection with the general movement about thirty persons having accounts on his books had called and made settlement either in full or part. He traced the payments in practically every case to the publicity of Pay-up Week. Others, he declared, had either called in person or had notified him by letter that they would be unable to settle their accounts in full at this time but would do so at an early date.

This merchant said that the customers who had called to settle their accounts were as enthusiastic over the plan as he is. He said that they declared they could have paid the bills sooner but when they read about the purpose of Pay-up Week they decided that it would be a good time to "square up" their accounts as they realized that the credit extended to them was a privilege and that the merchant could have used the money in paying for other goods which he has purchased.

Quite a number of the local merchants sent out letters calling attention to the National Week and enclosing a statement for the amount due as shown by their books. The statements were issued so that the customers could compare the figures and the various items with their own records to see if any mistake had been made. Most of the business houses now have adopted the "statement plan" as the best means of giving their customers an opportunity to see if any errors have been made in bookkeeping. The statements also served to call attention to any bill which might be outstanding and overlooked by the customer. Many persons depend almost entirely upon the statements to keep them informed when unpaid bills are due.

More and more, business is reaching a "spot cash" basis. The margin of profit is smaller each year, better values are being given and the dealers now depend largely upon the number of times they can turn their money. Many merchants and business men here who do a large credit business have thousands of dollars tied up in accounts. The goods for which they paid cash have been permitted to go the customer on faith of payment and when that faith is broken or taken advantage of the dealer is frequently seriously handicapped in his business affairs.

The purpose of Pay-up Week is to encourage customers having outstanding bills to pay them. Frequently under the credit system it is easier for some customers to buy large bills than they would if they were required to pay cash for the goods. When purchases are made on credit there is no exchange of money at that time and if the practice is continued for any considerable length of time without settlement the accounts will soon be much larger than even the customer is aware unless he is keeping his own accounts carefully.

FORMER CHIEF OPERATOR AT LOCAL EXCHANGE DEAD

Miss Pearl Reed Passes Away Today After a Illness with Tuberculosis.

Miss Pearl Reed died this morning at 7:30 o'clock at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Robert Nichols, East Fifth street, after an illness with tuberculosis. Miss Reed was the daughter of Mrs. Jessie Francisco Reed. Her father, Riley Reed, died ten years ago. She was born in this city October 1, 1895, and had spent her entire life in Seymour. For some time she was chief operator at the telephone exchange but during the holidays was forced to give up her work on account of failing health. Miss Reed was always courteous and kind to her patrons and was popular among her large circle of friends. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Jessie Reed, three sisters, Mona, Madge and Thelma, and two brothers, Harry and Lynn Reed, all of Seymour. She was a devoted member of the First M. E. church since early girlhood. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

LIBRARIANS OF SOUTHERN INDIANA WILL MEET HERE

Henry N. Sanborn, Secretary of Indiana Library Commission, Will Have Part in Program.

Announcement is made that a district meeting of the librarians in southern Indiana will be held in this city Friday, February 25. Two sessions have been arranged, one of the afternoon and other at night. Both will be held at the assembly room of the city library. The afternoon session will be devoted to a discussion of subjects of particular interest to librarians and the evening meeting will be open to the public. At that time a program that will be of general interest will be given. It is planned to have a reading but the complete program is not yet arranged. Henry N. Sanborn, secretary of the Public Library Commission of Indiana, will come from Indianapolis to attend the meeting and will give an address. The librarian of the Aurora Library is secretary of the organization and has charge of the arrangements for the conferences.

LUTHERAN ATHLETES WIN FROM INDIANAPOLIS RIVALS

Both Basket Ball and Bowling Teams of Local Society Defeat Visiting Teams of St. Paul's Church.

LARGE CROWDS SEE THE GAMES

Seymour Lutheran athletes proved themselves better in both basket ball and bowling than the representatives of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Indianapolis, in the contests which were staged Saturday night and yesterday afternoon. More than thirty Indianapolis people, comprising members of the basket ball and bowling teams and their friends, came Saturday evening and were extended the hospitality of the local Lutheran Social Aid Society over Sunday. Every courtesy was shown the visitors with the exception of allowing them to win either contest, and in this respect no consideration whatever was extended them, the locals walking off with both games in a comparatively easy manner. The biggest basket ball crowd of the season was present Saturday evening, the auditorium being lined on all sides, with a crowd on the stage. The easy victory of the local quintet was somewhat of a surprise to the crowd, as the visitors were regarded as probable winners, and in practice they showed up strong in goal shooting ability. The local's win was due not so much to the weakness of their opponents, who played a consistent game, as to their own good playing. Showing the best form they have exhibited to date, guard-

CITY COURT GRIST WAS HEAVY TODAY

Arrest of Minor on Charge of Intoxication Results in Affidavits for Two Saloonists.

ROGERS PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Two Others Fined $5 and Costs Each When They Pleaded Guilty Before Mayor Ross.

As the result of police activity Saturday night more cases were heard in city court today than on any Monday for several months. John Barleycorn was the sole source of the trouble, according to the testimony given by the defendants before Mayor Ross. As some of the defendants charged with "plain drunk" had been in jail since their arrest they were anxious to be arraigned and to learn the amount of their fines. Ruel Sloane, a sixteen-year-old lad, was arrested Saturday night for intoxication. As he is a minor the police began an investigation in an effort to learn where he had secured the liquor and Sloane is said to have told the officers the places where he visited. He was accompanied by William Holland. Holland was first brought before the mayor and pleaded guilty. He was fined $1 and costs. Sloane was then brought into the court room and pleaded guilty to intoxication. As a result of his talk with the police an affidavit was preferred against Arthur Rogers, bartender for Ed and Virgil Steinkamp, saloonist on West Second street. Rogers was charged with selling to a minor. He was brought into court by Officer Wallace and when arraigned pleaded not guilty and asked for a trial. The mayor fixed the time for the hearing at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. Sloane was released upon bond. He had little to say to the charge in court except that he just knew the Sloane lad. Young Sloane is said to have told the police that he also purchased liquor at W. L. Kasting's wholesale and retail liquor house on South Chestnut street and accordingly an affidavit against Kasting was prepared. Mr. Kasting was ill today and the warrant could not be read to him in person, but he empowered his attorney, Albert L. Kasting, to appear for him. A plea of not guilty was entered for him and he was instructed to appear in city court at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning when further disposition will be made of the two cases. Ed. Mitchell and Jason Lynch were also charged with intoxication and on arraignment pleaded guilty and were each fined $5 and costs. Both have appeared before the mayor before, according to police records, and for this reason did not escape with the usual one dollar and fine. Sloane's father was interested in the case of his son and said today he expected to back up the prosecution. This is the first time for several months that a charge of selling to a minor has been preferred against any of the local saloonists. The police have given special attention to this form of violation of the liquor law and have endeavored to rigidly enforce the requirements as laid down by the state law.

POSSIBLE LEAK OF NAVAL SECRETS IS HEADED OFF

President Wilson Cancels Advertisements for Draftsmen Under Civil Service.

By United Press.
Washington, February 21—President Wilson recently took quick action towards heading off a leakage of naval secrets, it became known today. He caused to be nullified an advertisement by the civil service commission for draftsmen under which aliens would have been permitted to serve in positions of utmost trust.

ATTORNEY BELIEVES HE HAS FOUND MATERIAL EVIDENCE

Albert L. Kasting Attorney for His Father, Working on Case which was Filed Today.

Albert L. Kasting, attorney for his father, W. L. Kasting, saloonist, against whom an affidavit charging the sale of intoxicating liquor to a minor was today filed, said this afternoon that he had secured evidence which he believes will entirely vindicate the defendant. The attorney said that Young Sloane, the prosecuting witness, alleged the purchase of some peach brandy and on inquiry he had found that only one bottle of peach brandy was sold Saturday afternoon at the time Sloane says he purchased it and that it was sold to a man about 50 years old. The bottle could be identified, according to the attorney, by the peculiar wooden cork. Sloane, it is said, still maintains that he purchased the liquor there and denies that it was given to him by anyone else. He is said to have stated, however, that he did not know positively who sold it to him.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH HAS EVERY MEMBER CANVASS

Men of Church Spent Sunday Afternoon Calling on Members of the Congregation.

Sunday afternoon was an ideal afternoon for getting about over the city. The men of the First Baptist church had arranged to make a canvass during the afternoon to see every member of the church and secure the pledges for current expenses and missions for the year beginning March 1. The city was divided into districts and the men went in teams of two calling on the members who had not reported their pledges at the morning church service. Many were not at home because the weather was ideal for an afternoon outing but the reports indicate good work on the part of the visitors. A number of pledges are to be reported next Sunday. This church has been moving forward rapidly since the pastor, Rev. Chas. L. Graham, came to this field over two years ago. Several plans for still larger work are under consideration.

REPUBLICAN'S WAR PICTURES AT THE MAJESTIC, MARCH 2ND

"On The Firing Line With the Germans," Thrilling Pictures of Real Fighting, to be Shown Here.

GREATEST OF WAR PICTURES

Believing that every person in Seymour would appreciate the opportunity of seeing what are without a doubt the most thrilling war pictures of the great European struggle yet presented in America, the Republican has secured the film "On The Firing Line With the Germans" and will show these greatest of all motion pictures of this greatest of all conflicts at the Majestic on Thursday, March 2nd. These are not pictures taken after engagements, of troops on their way to the front, but are pictures of the real fighting, taken during the thick of the engagements, actual scenes at the front taken from auto and aeroplane by W. H. Durborough, daring press photographer who was with Von Hindenberg's army during the entire campaign in Russian Poland and show, among other events, the storming of Fort Novo Georgievsk, the fall of Warsaw, Von Hindenberg's smashing drive, the Kaiser at the front, the murderous machine gun fire, Zeppelin raids on Warsaw, fierce infantry assaults, terrific trench struggles, etc. Mr. Durborough is seen at work in many scenes in the film. "There are war pictures and war pictures, but the blue ribbon goes to those taken by W. H. Durborough," says the Chicago Tribune. The film has just completed a run of seven weeks at the Fine Arts and La Salle theatres in Chicago. At Terre Haute where the pictures were shown last week the crowds which stormed the theatre were so great that an extended engagement was necessary to accommodate those who wanted to see them. SITUATION STILL REGARDED GRAVE

Crisis Between Germany and United States Depends Upon Outcome of Two Points.

ALLEGED PUBLICITY METHODS

Secretary Lansing Refuses to Say if Ambassador Bernstorff Will be Called Before Him.

By United Press.
Washington, February 21—The situation between Germany and the United States is as grave as at any time since the Lusitania issue arose. This was the positive declaration at the state department today, and with the announcement Secretary Lansing did not deny the fact of strained personal relations between himself and Ambassador von Bernstorff. Two things may precipitate a crisis it was stated: One would be the loss of American life by the inauguration of Germany's proposed new submarine warfare March 1. The other—and this is regarded as the more significant—would be the failure of Germany to bring the Lusitania negotiations to a satisfactory close. Since the state department says closing these negotiations in a way satisfactory to the United States is impossible while the German decree remains in force, a serious situation is believed imminent. Only eight days remain until the decree becomes effective. Germany through her ambassador has indicated a willingness to again postpone the date if requested but the state department has said such a request will not be made by this government. As to the relations between Lansing and Bernstorff growing out of what the administration considers the latter's unfair publicity methods, little effort was made to conceal the fact. The ambassador was not in the city. When Secretary Lansing was asked flatly today whether he still considered calling Ambassador Bernstorff to account of his alleged dissemination of propaganda which the department regards as annoying he avoided a direct answer. The secretary waited full two minutes before answering. His face grew grave and he said: "If I did contemplate such action I would not make it known beforehand through the press."

Though the situation is growing more tense the officials are satisfied with the shutting off of the propaganda by from the German embassy as the result of the warning from the state department. The fact that the state department let it be known that Secretary Lansing was contemplating the dismissal of Bernstorff until the propaganda ceased is believed to have convinced the German embassy that its relations with the department were really serious. Bernstorff, it is believed, took the hint and Lansing secured just what he desired without a formal protest.

GERMANS AROUSED OVER THE AMERICAN ATTITUDE

Berlin Reports That People There Understood That Lansing Had Approved Policy.

By United Press.
Berlin, February 21—Latest information from the foreign office that the United States will not give its approval to Germany's new submarine policy has caused surprise and indignation here. The general public has not followed the negotiations closely but it was understood that Secretary Lansing had indicated in advance that the United States would approve the new program. The news from Washington has served to renew the doubt in the minds of the German people as to the American attitude.

MAN CUTS THROAT AFTER FATALITY WOUNDING MOTHER

Harry Oliver, 27, in Critical Condition in Frankford, Ind., Hospital—Mob is Formed.

By United Press.
Frankford, Ind., February 21—While Harry Oliver, 27, lay near death in a hospital here, the police redoubled precautions today to prevent a lynching which was threatened last night by a mob of 150 men which formed near the home of Oliver where he shot and killed his mother, Alice Oliver, 48. After shooting his mother Harry cut his own throat with a razor. Patrolman Badger actively mingled with the mob and persuaded the leaders to disband. Oliver's condition today was pronounced as extremely critical with little chance of recovery. His throat was half severed in two and fifty stitches were required to close up the gash. Oliver shot his mother after a day of brooding. There were no arguments, as previously reported, and Oliver shot without saying a word.

ENRAGED MAN MURDERS MOTHER

Son Was Scolded For Drinking and Laziness.

SLAYER CUTS HIS THROAT

Dead Woman's Greatest Sorrow in Life Was Her Son's Intemperance and Dislike For Work—Father Does Not Accept Insanity Theory.

Frankfort, Ind., Feb. 21.—Mrs. Alice Oliver, forty-eight years old, was shot and killed at the dinner table in her home here by her son Harry, twenty-nine years old, because she had reprimanded the young man for laziness and drinking. After the shooting the son cut his throat with a razor and is in a precarious condition at the Frankfort hospital.

Oliver's father and two sisters were in the house at the time of the tragedy and saw Harry Oliver, after slashing his throat, stagger into the kitchen and seat himself at a table, where, with blood streaming from the gash in his throat, he wrote a note as follows:

"Goodby to all. This has been coming for eight years. Mother can not live and stand it all."

Neighbors, attracted by the cries of the two sisters, called the police and a physician. The latter pronounced Mrs. Oliver dead and arranged for the son's removal to the hospital, where it was said that the razor had penetrated the windpipe. His jugular vein, however, was not touched and it is believed he has a chance to recover. In the event of his recovery, he will be charged with the murder of his mother.

George Oliver, father of the young man, says he does not think his son is insane. The father, with other members of the family, is employed in the Clover Leaf shops here.

Mrs. Oliver's greatest sorrow was Harry's intemperance and his dislike for work. She scolded him frequently, it is said, and he always grew sullen when the subject was mentioned.

George Oliver, the father, said he did not understand what Harry meant by his statement in the note that "this has been coming for eight years."

Friends of the slayer think that he is insane, but this theory is not accepted by the father, who blames his son's violent temper for the tragedy.

Coroner Wise and members of the police department are of the opinion that young Oliver's unreasonable rage was responsible. He has an unenviable record as a police character, due to fighting and intoxication, the police declare.

TO INCREASE INCOME TAX

Plan to Provide War Revenue Will Also Lower Exemption.

Washington, Feb. 21.—The increased revenues necessary for carrying out the administration preparedness program will be raised chiefly by changes in the income tax laws and a levy on war munitions.

This is indicated by a poll that has been made of the ways and means committee of the house which originates all revenue legislation. A majority of that committee, including nearly all the Democrats favor heaving mostly on the income tax for necessary revenues, and a majority also, are disposed to levy a tax in some form upon war munitions. There is also sentiment in the committee favoring an inheritance tax.

It is evident there will be strong opposition to any plan which contemplates merely a boosting of the surtax rates as applied to incomes over $10,000 a year. The poll shows that many members of the ways and means committee favoring reducing the exemptions as well as raising the surtaxes. The New York delegation is insisting upon lowering the present exemptions.

Doctor Killed by Train.

Muncie, Ind., Feb. 21.—Dr. John A. Dowell, a practicing physician of Albany, Ind., was killed in front of his home by a Lake Erie & Western train. It is thought he stepped in front of the engine in a blinding snowstorm. Dr. Dowell had been making a professional call a short distance from his home.

I. T. T. LINCOLN

German Spy Recaptured After Having Eluded U. S. Officials.

LINCOLN, THE SPY, HAS TIME TO THINK IT OVER

Is Resting In Solitary Confinement In Jail.

New York, Feb. 21.—Ignatius T. Lincoln, benighted spy, is resting in solitary confinement in the Raymond street jail, Brooklyn, thinking over the snappy things he had written, twitting the federal authorities about his own elusiveness previous to his capture.

He was held absolutely incommunicado. Orders were given by First Deputy Marshal Parry and by J. A. Baker, acting head of the local office of the special investigators of the department of justice, not to permit him to receive or send out any message or to hold converse with anybody.

Federal agents under Mr. Baker were continuing their inquiry along lines that may bring further arrests in connection with Lincoln's escape and harboring in various places.

The line of inquiry is directed in four different ways. First, into the details of escape; secondly, the persons who gave him lodging or helped him during his freedom; thirdly, whether he had any direct communication with the newspaper that received letters from him and whether he received money from the editors; fourthly, whether any money from the publishers got into his hands after his escape through various mediums.

Lincoln has announced that he is ready to tell. He has refused, however, to give the name of the chauffeur, who, driving a seven seated touring car, stopped in front of the Hofbrau Haus, at Broadway and Thirtieth street, and was handing Lincoln several baggage checks when the latter felt a revolver boring into his ribs.

PRISONERS KILL SHERIFF

Mutiny, Lock Officer In Cell and Make Getaway.

Deming, N. M., Feb. 21.—Prisoners in the county jail here mutinied, locked the sheriff and his attendants in a cell, telephoned for an automobile and escaped in it, and later in a battle with the sheriff and his posse, killed the sheriff.

The prisoners told the garage keeper it was Sheriff Dwight Stevens talking and that the car was wanted to take a sick man to a hospital.

The chauffeur was locked up with the sheriff and the prisoners escaped in the car after first looting the militia armory for rifles and ammunition.

Later the sheriff secured his release and, with a posse followed the prisoners. In a battle the sheriff was killed, it is reported. Two of the escaped prisoners were murderers.

Allies Occupy Another Greek Island.

Athens, Greece, Feb. 21.—The ministry of the interior announces that a detachment of allied forces has occupied Orthoni, a small island near Corfu. The reason for the occupation is unknown. Orthoni is the old name for the island of Fano, occupation of which by a French detachment was reported unofficially on Feb. 9.

Los Angeles, Feb. 21.—A new world's record for sustained flight in a seaplane has been established by Corporal W. I. Smith, attached to the army signal corps at North Island, San Diego. His record was eight hours and forty minutes and was made by a hydro-aeroplane.

Francis to Give Answer Soon.

Washington, Feb. 21.—David R. Francis of St. Louis will notify President Wilson this week whether he will accept the post of ambassador to Russia. Mr. Francis would succeed George T. Marrye, whose resignation has been accepted.

GERMAN AIR MEN SHELL ENGLAND

Bombs Kill Three and Injure One.

BRITISH TRENCHES ARE LOST

Attempt of Teutons to Cross the Yser Canal Is Preceded by Violent Artillery Bombardment—Are Driven Out of Captured Trenches.

London, Feb. 21.—England's coast and southwest coasts were visited in broad daylight by four German seaplanes, presumably of the latest type of battle planes. Up to a late hour the official figure of casualties was only three—two men and one boy—killed, and one man, a marine, injured.

Many bombs were dropped. The damage, as officially reported, was confined chiefly to private property. A feature of the official account is the frank admission that British air craft, one naval plane and two aeroplanes, which ascended to attack the raiders failed to reach them. It appears the German planes are capable of ascending to an extraordinary height. The war office states that two biplanes, after circling over the town of Lowestoft, in Kent, "rose to a great height and seemingly vanished."

Fifteen minutes they reappeared over the town and then flew to the east.

At Lowestoft, it develops, only three bombs hit buildings. Others fell on waste ground, into gardens, on the beach and into the sea, none of them doing any damage of military importance.

Nobody seems to have seen the machines approach, though the sky was clear. The streets were thronged with people enjoying the sunshine or going to their churches. When the raiders were seen, curiosity exceeded alarm and the official admonitions to seek shelter was ignored by most.

One bomb missed a little Methodist chapel, hitting a house a few yards away. A window of the chapel on that side was smashed. Arrow like fragments of glass flew across the chapel, some sticking in the woodwork. One pierced the pulpit Bible, missing the pastor. Smaller fragments were showered on the people's heads. The only casualty consisted in a man's finger being cut. Some old people in the chapel collapsed as the result of fright. The service was not resumed.

The Germans made another attempt to cross the Yser canal in the vicinity of Steenstraete, north of Yser. The attempt was preceded by a violent artillery bombardment. The assault resulted in the Germans setting foot in some 350 meters (395 yards), according to the German official statement, of British trenches. The French communique says that the Germans were immediately driven out again.

A number of heavy artillery engagements are reported from the region between the Meuse and the Moselle, and the district south of St. Mihiel. The French exploded two mines at Vauquois in the Argonne.

DUG GRAVE BEFORE MURDER

Woman Confesses Husband and Another Man Killed Victim.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—An ax murder, planned so carefully that even the grave for the victim was dug before he was slain, was revealed, the police say, in a confession by Mrs. Teofil Zdrowski.

According to the alleged confession, Tony Sandrovich, age fifty-five, a farm laborer employed near Benton Harbor, Mich., was beaten to death with an ax and robbed by Teofil Zdrowski, Sandrovich's employer, and Alex Metelski.

"A grave already had been dug," Mrs. Zdrowski said. "We threw the body into it and left for Chicago."

According to the police the two men confessed when informed of Mrs. Zdrowski's statement. It is said only $55 was taken from Sandrovich.

PETITION FOR PEACE MADE

German Business Men Reported to Be Seeking Overtures.

London, Feb. 21.—The Copenhagen correspondent of the Daily Mail telegraphs that he learns from a trustworthy source that more than 500 prominent men, including heads of business houses, senators and ship owners of Hamburg, Luebeck and Bremen, have petitioned the government to begin peace overtures with a view to ending the war within the next three months. Otherwise, the Hansa Bund states, they say, will be totally ruined.

O'Neal Sentenced to Prison.

MRS. ELLA CANINE WINS SUIT

Gets $10,500 Verdict In Breach of Promise Suit.

Canton, O., Feb. 21.—The jury in the $25,000 breach of promise suit brought by Mrs. Ella Canine of Indianapolis, against R. R. Jacob, wealthy Pittsburg and Waynesburg (O.) business man, awarded Mrs. Canine a verdict of $10,500.

The jury was instructed not to consider whether or not a common law marriage had been entered into.

Judge W. P. Stephenson questioned the widow concerning her declaration that she is the common law wife of Jacob. Mrs. Canine told the court in answer to a question that she regarded herself as the common law wife of Jacob before she went to Pittsburg with him.

"Were there any conditions to this common law marriage?" Judge Stephenson asked.

"Only that there should be a formal ceremony as soon as he settled with his children and disposed of some other entanglements," she answered.

"If Jacob should die now would you claim a share in his estate as his common law widow?" he asked her. She answered that she would not.

U. S. MARSHALS MADE PRISONERS ON APPAM

German Commander Puts Guard Over Officers.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 21.—Lieutenant Berg, commanding the captured British liner Appam, practically made prisoners of the two United States deputy marshals placed on his ship by order of the federal court, following proceedings brought by the African Steam Navigation company, limited, of Liverpool, to secure possession of the ship. He did not give the two Americans any food and forbade them from going about the ship. They were obliged to remain aft and were practically under guard.

When United States Deputy Saunders went on board the Appam Lieut. Berg practically ignored him. He refused to have anything to do with the marshal until Collector of Customs Hamilton, who protested against the action of the deputy marshal in serving papers on the Appam, came to his assistance. He finally agreed to talk with Saunders and the whole situation was explained to him.

Lieutenant Berg received several bulky letters and telegrams and it is said he plans to hold a conference with representatives from the German embassy. The question of securing counsel to represent Germany in the court proceedings for the possession of the ship will be discussed, it is said.

N. Y. POLITICIANS ARE BUSY

Great Activity Shown By Various Political Parties.

New York, Feb. 21.—Political news of real interest has been sprung mostly from the Republican or Progressive camp within the past few weeks, as a natural consequence of a rather lively Republican state convention and the attitude taken by the Progressives toward the action and significance of that convention.

But there has been a great stir of activity in Democratic circles in the past few days because of the preparations being made for the Democratic state convention at Syracuse on March 1, and there have been many conferences of leaders in regard to selecting a successor for United States Senator James A. O'Gorman, a candidate to run against Governor Whitman, or whoever is nominated by the Republicans, and a successor to William Church Osborn as Democratic state chairman.

TRAIN HITS BUSS; EIGHT HURT

Young People Were Returning Home From an Entertainment.

Ft. Wayne, Ind., Feb. 21.—Eight persons were injured, one seriously, when a fast east-bound Nickel Plate freight train struck the Ft. Wayne-New Haven bus at the Main street crossing in New Haven as a merry party of New Haven young people was returning from an entertainment at the Sheridan schoolhouse, near New Haven.

Miss Edna Gorrell, twenty-eight years old, is most seriously injured. She will recover. The others injured are Inez Gorrell, twenty-two; Helen Gorrell, twenty-five; Glenn Grubb, twenty-two; Hugh Gorrell, seventeen; Carl Speer, twenty-two; Elmer Powell, eighteen, and Robert Bastress, twenty-two.

TANKER MAY BE TOTAL LOSS

British Ship Runs Ashore on Sandwich Ledge.

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 21.—The British tanker Potomac, Captain Sudway commanding, bound for Texas from Manchester, with a cargo of creosote, which ran ashore in a dense fog, may be a total loss. Captain Sudway was bringing his vessel into Halifax to replenish his bunkers and was entering without the aid of a pilot. In a thick fog the man at the wheel could not make out anything ahead. He ran on a rock on Sandwich Ledge.

Three tugs were at work on the steamer during the afternoon, and at the next high tide, which was at 8 o'clock, a combined effort to release the ship was made without success.

First Woman Bank President Dies.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 21.—Mrs. Anne McLean Tower, said to have been the first woman bank president in the United States, died at her home here. A few weeks ago she was re-elected president of the First National bank of Mt. Pleasant, Tex., of which she had been the head for more than twenty years.

Girl Fractures Leg.

Aurora, Ind., Feb. 21.—Miss Helen E. Hitch, age seventeen of Covington, Ky., who was the guest of Miss Jennie M. Stein, fractured her leg in a fall, caused when she attempted to kick aside a banana peeling that she had dropped on the sidewalk. She was afraid another person might step on the peeling and be injured, and was herself the victim.

THE CITY BEAUTIFUL

HOW CITY PLANNING MAY BE STARTED.

A Citizen May Initiate the Idea and a Permanent Organization Follow.

Often a single public spirited citizen with very little expenditure of effort can initiate a city planning movement, says Frank Koester. At an informal dinner the subject may be brought up and the first steps taken—that is, to interest a few men of prominence in the idea. A committee may then be judiciously selected of those who are willing to lend the weight of their names to the undertaking.

A permanent organization of some size is then formed, which may be known as the Civic Improvement or City Planning association. It should be representative of the most prominent members of the different professions and should include in its membership leading business men, bankers, lawyers, editors, clergymen, architects, engineers, painters, sculptors, educators, representatives of various public welfare societies, the mayor of the city, commissioners of public works and perhaps also leading representatives of outlying communities. The newspapers will, of course, have been interested in the movement from the outset.

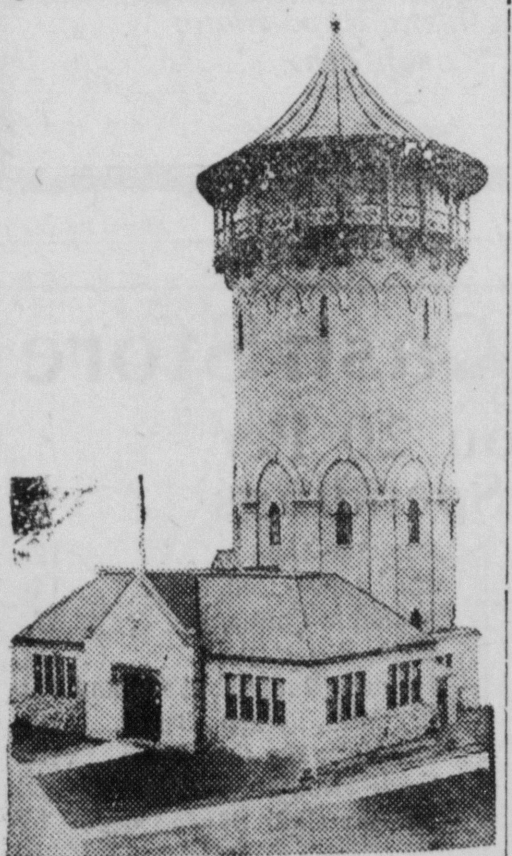

The first step is to raise a fund for purposes of securing plans and meeting the expense of the movement, and this may be accomplished either by an appropriation made by the municipal authorities, by donation from a philanthropist or by a general public subscription. It is advisable to have as great a general interest as possible created in the subject, as it will thus receive a degree of support which would not be accorded if it were its activities confined to a limited number.

One of the best means of arousing public interest in city planning is the giving of public lectures on the subject by experts. Such a lecturer should always be obtained whatever the plan followed, and the lecture should be accompanied by illustrations of what has been done and is contemplated in other cities.

When the work of the expert has been completed a public exhibition should be held of the drawings and plans, and they should be subjected to the criticism of the public at large and discussed in public meetings and in the press.

Picturesque Water Fountain.

A water tower of both artistic and substantial structure is shown in the accompanying photograph. It was built by the Chicago Bridge and Iron works for the village of Riverside, Ill. It replaces a brick tower, built in 1870, which supported a wooden tank. This tank had to be rebuilt once or twice, and finally, in 1913, it was burned, in spite of the fact that it contained water. It was then decided to put up a more satisfactory tower, and, under the supervision of Dabney Maury and Douglas Graham as consulting engineers and W. D. Mann as architect, the present tank was erected.

RIVERSIDE WATER TOWER.

The plan involved carrying out the appearance of the original brick tower, while adding twenty feet to its height. An elliptical bottom steel tank of 150,000 gallon capacity was installed.

BUNGALOW FIRE HOUSE TYPE IS GROWING IN FAVOR.

Stations of This Kind Are Popular in the West.

A new fire station of the bungalow type has been erected at Byberry, Pa., on the outskirts of Philadelphia. This type has found much favor in western cities.

It is believed that by having the men at all times upon the same floor with the apparatus the time required in responding to a call will be reduced considerably. The single floor will do away with the sliding pole and the stairway by which firemen have been injured in the hurry after an alarm. This time reducing, coupled with the fact that the apparatus is motorized, is expected to lessen the fire loss in any community where the fire station must cover a large territory.

The station at Byberry is in the country, and an excellent view is afforded from each window. The south side of the building holds a dormitory with twelve beds. The north side has the captain's office and quarters, a drying room for clothing and a large lounge room for the firemen. This room has a gas cooking range, on which meals may be prepared by men unable to go to their homes. The main portion of the building, the center, is paved with wooden blocks. The signal boards and telephones are in a raised alcove in the main room. Two electrically lighted pits facilitate working under the motor apparatus.

BEAUTIFUL HIGHWAYS.

Planting Shade Trees in Municipalities and Highways Advocated.

Recent comments urging the removal of the ugly roadside signboard and the planting of shade trees on the road, says the Country Gentleman, bring the following suggestion from a California reader:

"I believe the time is ripe for a vigorous campaign favoring the beautifying of our highways. California is rapidly spending a recent appropriation of $18,000,000 on permanent state roads, and Riverside county has a large force supplementing these state roads with county roads from a recent appropriation. The beautification of these roads should follow. One per cent of the cost of many of the roadbeds would plant their borders to suitable trees."

No one questions the desirability of road improvement or the value it adds to local property. Only a demonstration in some favored locality like California is required to give the movement impetus. We may take a lesson from city experience, and our correspondent tells the story for Riverside:

"Twelve years ago systematic beautification of our city was undertaken. The matter was too new for our city government to take up at once. It was put up to the people. The chamber of commerce raised a liberal sum, and planting was commenced at once. Within a year the city authorities took over the work, appointed a tree warden—the first in the city—and appropriated funds. Within five years 15,000 trees were planted. Within five years nine southern California cities adopted municipal control of their trees. Real estate men place the commercial value to our own little city at over $1,000,000."

Roadside tree planting is a formidable proposition, but it is possible if planned for a period of ten to twenty years.

City to Plant Trees.

Park Commissioner Ingersoll of Brooklyn announced recently that he had made arrangements to plant 600 trees in Bedford avenue in the three mile stretch between Eastern parkway and Taylor street. Frederic B. Pratt has made a very generous contribution to a fund for buying trees, and this, Commissioner Ingersoll said, made it possible to start this big planting experiment in Bedford avenue.

"When I became park commissioner of Brooklyn I discovered that the borough was losing trees at the rate of about 1,500 a year and only about 1,000 a year were being planted. I started a movement for voluntary associations in the work of tree planting, and it has been very successful.

"It seems strange that in these days of automobile travel the death of many trees is due to horse bites. We found that 50 per cent of the trees that died had their bark gnawed by horses. It is against the law to tether a horse to a tree. We have solicited the co-operation of the police and have called on property owners to put wire guards around trees. Some 5 per cent of the trees die of gas poisoning."

As a means of cooling the paths and soothing the thoughts of citizens of New York city in the more or less good old summer time the Merchants' association is asking park commissioners in all boroughs to plant trees along streets. These trees recently were offered by the state conservation commission at a very moderate rate, and the association suggests planting them in parks until they are big enough to be set out along thoroughfares.

The planting of trees both for the sake of beauty and utility is being adopted by many municipalities.

New Street Signs in San Francisco.

Street signs that can be read as plainly by night as by day have been installed in San Francisco. A waterproof and protected cast iron box, forty inches long and eight inches deep, is set into the curbstone six or eight feet from the corner of the sidewalk. Within the box is an electric tube light, connected with the regular street lighting system. The outer side of the box is perforated with letters spelling the name of the street. What is more, the names are placed exactly in position to meet the eye of the passing pedestrian, the autoist or the street car passenger during the day or night.

A Valuable City Bureau.

The bureau of investigation of the Portland (Me.) chamber of commerce has proved very valuable to the citizens of Portland. Through the bureau's efforts a proposition was nipped in the bud that had taken over $5,000 out of the city the previous year. The bureau is co-operating with other commercial organizations in giving and receiving advance information regarding unworthy solicitations and advertising schemes. One correlated activity is now being organized in the form of a central bureau of social agencies designed to approve certain worthy local charities and aid them in obtaining contributions.

NATIONAL MISSIONARY CONGRESS MEETS APRIL 26

Washington to Be Scene of Momentous Religious Gathering.

All the important foreign and home missionary agencies of the United States are making preparations to participate actively in the men's national missionary congress, which meets in Washington April 26 to 30. The congress will be one of the most momentous religious gatherings since the world missionary conference in Edinburgh in 1910. In religious circles it is regarded as a potential event. The assemblage will face the new world conditions of opportunity and need and is expected to exert a profound influence on the missionary activities of the next ten years.

It also will be the climax to the series of great conventions of the national missionary campaign now being held in the leading cities of the United States under the direction of the laymen's missionary movement. More than 54,000 men have been delegates to the thirty-seven conventions thus far held.

The arrangements for the congress are being made by the laymen's missionary movement. The sessions will be held in the Memorial Continental hall, opening on Wednesday evening, April 26, and closing on Sunday evening, April 30. The congress will be a deliberate body, and the delegates, limited to about 2,000 men, have been allotted to the various Protestant religious denominations upon an equitable basis. Each denomination is selecting its own representatives, and delegates are registering from every part of the United States.

The outstanding leaders of the Christian world will appear upon the program of addresses, and the topics to be considered are related to mission work in the United States and in non-Christian lands. The future activities of laymen in all branches of mission work will have a large part in the discussions.

$27,061,000,000 SPENT IN EUROPE

After Eighteen Months No Decisive Blow Has Been Struck.

LOSS ABOUT 15,000,000 MEN

This, of course, includes Those Killed, Wounded and Prisoners—Bankruptcy Menaces Great Nations Engaged in Struggle—Neither Side Will Consider Peace.

The European war has lasted eighteen months—the blackest eighteen months known to the modern world! What has been accomplished?

No European country has been benefited, nor has human liberty advanced at any point, nor has any great moral principle triumphed in any place or on any battlefield.

The net result has been 2,990,000 men in the very prime of life killed, more than 2,200,000 made prisoners and more than 9,830,000 wounded and maimed, many crippled for life.

This measureless bloodshed and suffering, making millions widows and many more millions orphans, have been the heaviest toll of the war.

Next, the money loss—$10,862,000,000 borrowed for war by Germany, Austria and Hungary; $16,190,000,000 borrowed for war by France, England, Russia and Italy; a grand total of $27,061,000,000 spent in making war.

Waste of Money Stupendous.

The mind cannot grasp such stupendous figures or such wastage. It means twenty-seven times the total national debt of the United States incurred in 139 years of history, including fire wars.

It means a sum equal to the entire savings or increase in capital of the entire world for ten years.

It means a debt of about $360 for every family in all belligerent countries—more than the total income of a year of every European peasant family or unskilled laborer in Europe.

It means tax burdens for this generation and for generations yet unborn that will make the burdens of life greater than ever before for all.

Economic Crash at Hand.

In short, as Mr. Diamant, an expert in foreign exchange, wrote, bankruptcy is so menacing in all the warring countries that "if political economy does not soon make an end of the war the war will make an end of political economy."

What has been accomplished? The allies have failed utterly to penetrate or even seriously to weaken Germany.

Germany has failed utterly to strike a decisive blow at any of her four chief enemies.

The Franco-Prussian war was fought in forty-seven days, when the French army surrendered at Sedan and the Emperor Napoleon was made prisoner.

Now, at the end of 547 days, there are two battle lines, 1,950 miles long, deadlocked at every point. Nowhere a decision. All the nations bleeding to death, none able to strike a decisive blow.

The Germans have shown a power of organization at home and a military power in the field that the combined armies of Britain, France, Russia and Italy cannot break.

England has the command of the sea. And in all history sea power has never yet been beaten.

Will Not Think of Peace.

"Bulldog" England has lost many battles in 200 years, but has never acknowledged a defeat. Brave France has shown a gallantry, a unity and, above all, a steadiness and endurance in this war worthy of her noblest traditions. Both nations are unwilling even to discuss peace at the present moment, because as long as Germany holds in her armed possession nearly four-tenths of industrial France, nearly all Belgium, Serbia and Poland and part of the richest industrial section of Russia she is in better position to negotiate for peace than England, France or Russia.

Pete Petroniky of Indiana Harbor, Ind., rented his little cottage to his friend Andy Sendke. Then he went to Chicago. When he came back a month later he was unable to find his house or any trace of it or the trees around it. The police say the house has been stolen.

MEYER-REBBER.

The Evangelical Lutheran church was the scene of a beautiful and impressive wedding Sunday afternoon when Miss Kathryn Rebber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Rebber, Central avenue, became the bride of John Meyer, son of Mrs. Anna Meyer, West Eighth street. The popularity of the young couple was attested by the crowd which completely filled the auditorium of the church.

While Prof. H. F. Lange, of the Lutheran schools, played the wedding march the bridal couple proceeded down the aisle towards the altar. Miss Elvora Rebber, a cousin of the bride, and George Eggersman came first and were followed by Miss Dorothy Ulm, maid of honor, accompanied by Martin Plump, best man. The bride and groom were the last to enter the church. The bridal party stood at the altar during the service preceding the ceremony. The ceremony was said by the pastor, the Rev. E. H. Eggers.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of accordion plaited crepe de chine with an overdress of white chiffon. Her long veil was caught in cap shape with roses and she carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. Miss Dorothy Ulm was charming in a Nile green taffeta gown trimmed in lace. She carried a large bouquet of carnations. Miss Eleanor Rebber, bride's maid, wore a beautiful peach shade taffeta gown with a Georgette crepe tunic. She also carried carnations.

Immediately after the ceremony the bride and groom, accompanied by other members of the party in a shower of rice entered a waiting automobile and were driven to the home of her parents where a course wedding supper was served at 5 o'clock. Only the immediate relatives and the bridal party were guests.

The bride is a young lady of numerous accomplishments and is popular among her large group of friends. For some time she had been employed as a clerk at Able's Dry Goods Store where by her pleasant and accommodating manner she formed many close friendships. The groom is a clerk at Abel's Greery Store and is an efficient and obliging young man. The young couple have the congratulations of their many acquaintances. They will make their home with Mr. Meyer's mother on West Eighth street, and will be at home to their friends there in a short time.

SIX O'CLOCK DINNER.

Miss Edna Kasting gave a six o'clock dinner Saturday evening, in honor of Walter Christie, of Scottsburg. The dining room was decorated with toy hatchets and cherries, suggestive to Washington's birthday. At six o'clock an elegant course dinner was served. Later in the evening the guests composed a theater party. An out-of-town guest was Mrs. Earl F. Hetzler, of Troy, O.

Too Suggestive.

A professor at Columbia said one day to a roomful of auditors:

“Chronological coherence in ideas is much to be desired, but there are times when it becomes too suggestive. For instance, I once heard a minister make the following announcement at one of his Sunday services:

“The funeral of the late and much lamented sexton takes place on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Thanksgiving services will be held in this chapel on Thursday morning at 11 o'clock.”—Washington Post.

Figures Which Shout

The newspaper is supreme as an advertising medium in both its fields—local and general.

There is approximately $300,000,000 expended annually for newspaper advertising. Of this sum, between $50,000,000 and $55,000,000 represents space purchased by general advertisers.

This record is not approached by any competing medium.

There are sound reasons for the supremacy of the newspaper.

It is the one medium that reaches every consumer of everything, everywhere, every day. It offers economy and exactness, and more nearly eliminates waste than any other medium.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT
TOLD OF NEW RESOLUTIONTeachers May Write for License to Teach Pre-Vocational Subjects in Public Schools.

County Superintendent Payne has received a resolution from the state board of education making provision for the issuing of licenses in pre-vocational subjects to holders of valid 24 months' and 36 months' common school licenses and 60 month's licenses issued prior to Jan. 1, 1916, common school exemptions, state normal diplomas and professional and life state license.

The state law did not provide for this and the resolution tends to straighten out the question which has been causing some trouble. It is ordered by the state board that holders of these licenses shall be permitted to write upon one or more common school pre-vocational subjects alone, if successful shall receive a certificate valid for one year from date of issuance. In no case, however shall the certificate be valid after the expiration of the license to which it is attached. The ruling also provides that no fee shall be charged for this examination.

The state board has also decided that the list of questions for supervisors' licenses shall be divided into morning and afternoon subjects.

The Man Who Thinks
More Than He Talks

By Booth Tarkington

“IN '98, when the United States needed soldiers and asked for them, many of the more conspicuous volunteers received (and some of them encouraged) a great deal of publicity. The papers were ‘full of them,’ as we say. It was not so with Harry New; he just got his gun and went off to the war. When it was all over he came back, as quietly as he went. That was characteristic of him.

“He is a Hoosier of the old best breed; the old Hoosier stock that stood for cool level-headedness, for common-sense, for steadiness and for kindness. He is a wholly good neighbor and a wholly good fellow-citizen. He thinks more than he talks—and when he acts, something happens!

“He is a quiet man; but he is not a frowning man; not a self-important man. He is quiet because he is thoughtful and when he smiles everybody in sight smiles;—no one could help it! You begin to feel that the world is all right, after all, when you see Harry New smile.

“I believe that he never shook hands in his life without meaning it. I believe that he has never spoken a word without meaning it. I believe that he is unable to say a word that he doesn't mean. This man is all honest. He is precisely what he is. He has been doing generous things all his life; but never once has he done a kind thing in order to get benefit or credit from it, himself. He would not know how. He helps people because he wants to help them. There is no insincerity in him.

“There is no smallness of any kind in him, neither in his mind nor in his heart. These are negatives; let us pass to the affirmative. Harry New is an actual modern patriot; his Americanism is so deep-seated that it is the very soul of the man. This quiet man is a Big man; he thinks in National terms, and he knows not only his State but his Country. Both need him in United States Senate. In the most critical time in our history since the Civil War, it is dangerous to experiment or compromise in the types of men we are sending to the Congress. The selection of Harry New would be neither a compromise nor an experiment; it would be the selection of a people wise enough to select the best they have. For that is what he is.

“Perhaps you will notice the frequency with which the word ‘man’ occurs in these voluntary remarks. That is not because I find an unusual awkwardness in expressing myself today. It is because the word MAN is in the mind, all the time of anyone who writes or speaks of Harry New of Indiana.”

A. N. MARTIN IN CHARGE OF B. & O. STATION PROPERTY

Appointment of Supervisor of This Branch of Service is Effective Immediately.

A. N. Martin, who for several years has been superintendent of the general office building of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, has in addition to his other duties been appointed supervisor of station service of the company. The appointment is effective at once.

Mr. Martin assumes general charge of passenger stations and other terminal buildings used by patrons of the Baltimore and Ohio and is responsible for the equipment, fixtures and the work of station forces in maintaining the facilities so that they will present a tidy appearance. It is the plan of the new official to organize the station forces in the several hundred cities and towns reached by the railroad so that the employees through the proper use of the facilities may render the highest possible degree of service to the public.

The supervision of station service will be extended to every agency through which the management of the railroad comes in contact with the public. All agencies will be visited by the supervisor of station service and receive helpful assistance along lines of systematic performance of duty.

"Birth of a Nation" at Louisville Another Week.

The sale of seats for "The Birth of a Nation," at Macauley's Theatre, at Louisville, has so far exceeded expectations that the management has arranged to extend the engagement until February 26th. Seats are now on sale at the box office.

During the engagement the curtain rises promptly at 2:15 o'clock in the afternoon and 8:15 at night. The performance lasts nearly three hours. Owing to the long lines of ticket purchasers and the crowded condition of the lobby, it is advisable to purchase seats in advance.

The new theatre art invented by David W. Griffith in producing "The Birth of a Nation" has enabled him to surpass such stage spectacles as "Ben Hur," "The Garden of Allah," "Joseph and His Brethren" and "The Bluebird." Such productions seem small in comparison with the Griffith spectacle.

SPURNS $40,000 AS "TAINTED"

Woman Who Makes $300 a Year Refuses a Fortune.

CALLS HER UNCLE A MISER

Says He Made the Money by Grinding the Poor and She Cannot Reconcile Her Principles to Accept It—Recluse Had No Love For Any One and Had Never Extended a Helping Hand.

In a boxlike little room in Greenwich village, in the heart of New York city, Miss Edith Kitching is working away cheerily. The apartment is her workshop, living room and kitchen combined.

On the floor in one corner is a pan of apples. A trunk, a bookcase and a few articles of furniture almost fill the room. Against the wall are a couch fashioned of rough pine boards and the blankets which go with it to make a bed.

The little woman's hair is streaked with gray. She wears a simple poncho of heavy gray material and sandals. She must be forty or more, but her freshly colored face is young.

And this is the woman who turned down $40,000 left by a reclusive uncle because it was "tainted." She has absolutely and finally refused to touch the money, preferring to live according to her principles and within the limitations of a $300 a year income.

The "second floor front" at No. 24 Bank street, where Miss Kitching lives, is far from palatial. But Miss Kitching forgot her surroundings while she told about her life work and why she had to spurn the money which would keep her in comfort.

Uncle Died Last November.

The money was left to her by Francis F. Ripley, an uncle, who died Nov. 11 at No. 80 State street, Brooklyn. It was not left by will, but by assignments. The rest of the reclusive's $200,000 fortune was left to friends and Brooklyn institutions.

"There is nothing unusual about what I have done," said Miss Kitching. "I could not take the money and preserve my self respect. So I have placed the whole estate in the hands of a trust company."

"It is a long story. My uncle was a coward and a miser. He lived by himself, and never in his life did he ever show any love toward any human being. For forty years he worked as a clerk in the Bank of New York and hoarded his money. He denied himself all pleasures in order to save every cent. He was the worst type of miser it is possible to meet."

"Three times in his life he was engaged to be married. Each time the engagement was broken. But the women kept their holds over him, and that explains the assignments to the charitable institutions. He never cared a whit for any of them. His life had no charity in it. It consisted in grinding down every one with whom he came in contact.

Tells of Her Life Work.

"As for me, all my life has been devoted to one work, the education of the working classes. I was a pupil of Thomas Davidson, the great educator. I worked with him for eight years. Since I was three years old I have traveled over every continent of the globe. I just returned from Europe a few months ago."

"Could I reconcile my principles to accepting this money under such disgraceful conditions? I don't see how. If the money had been willed to me I would have used it to make reparation for some of the wrong which my uncle did. I should have had it all for this purpose."

"He was too cowardly to do that. He had no love for me or any one else. I am writing a book, and $300 a year isn't much, but I much prefer that to his money."

"My teacher, Thomas Davidson, in one of his books said, 'Do not pursue wealth, position or popularity.' I am following out that dictum in my life. I hope some day to start a real university where working people can be educated. The present colleges are not democratic; they are aristocratic in every sense."

"That is my only thought. I have forgotten about the money. I don't care what becomes of it."

And Miss Kitching went back to her writing in her boxlike room.

AN IDEAL AMERICAN MAN MUST BE JUST LIKE THIS

Age Twenty-five, Five Feet Eight;
Plenty of Clothes and Pay His Tailor.

The National Association of Merchant Tailors of America at its final session in St. Louis defined the proportions of the ideal American, after considering the good points of the following types.

Military, athletic, sedentary, corpulent.

He, the ideal American, should be: Age, 24 to 25 years; 5 feet 8 inches tall; weight, 148½ pounds; chest, 38 inches; waist, 33½ inches; hips, 39½ inches; thigh, 21 inches; calf, 14½ inches; neck, 14½ inches; upper arm at tension, 14½ inches. The head should measure one-eighth of the full length of the body. Carriage should be normal, neither overerect nor stooped. The legs should be straight and the foot arched.

It was unofficially stated that the highest type of ideal man buys many clothes and pays his tailor.

The tailors recommended the use of an abdominal suppressor, or corset, for men.

A resolution was passed urging members of congress, state legislative bodies and municipal assemblies to be "particularly careful to wear to public functions the attire prescribed for such occasions by the generally accepted rules of correct dress."

A copy of these resolutions will be sent to all assemblies in question, with the request that the clerks read the same at a regular session.

THIRD CHANGE IN WILSON CABINET

Bryan and McReynolds Others Who Have Left.

WHY GARRISON RESIGNED.

Differed in Opinion With President as to the Proper Method of Enlarging and Improving the United States Army—What He Advocated and What Wilson Supports.

The resignation of Secretary of War Garrison from President Wilson's cabinet marks the second change in the ranks of the president's official advisors since the outbreak of the European war. The other was Secretary of State Bryan, who would not sign what has been termed a warlike note sent to Germany in regard to the sinking of the Lusitania.

There has been one other change in the cabinet since Mr. Wilson assumed office three years ago. That was the resignation of Attorney General McReynolds, who quit in order to accept an appointment to the United States supreme court bench. He was succeeded by Attorney General Gregory.

Secretary Garrison resigned because he and the president didn't agree on the proper methods of enlarging and improving the United States army. President Wilson wanted to leave the matter largely in the hands of congress. Secretary Garrison insisted on the fulfillment of his program.

The Garrison Plan.

Secretary Garrison's plan provided for the raising of a citizen army of 400,000 men to supplement the regular army. It was to be recruited in increments of 133,000 men a year. Its recruits were to be obligated to devote a specified time for training for a period of three years and then to be on furlough without obligation excepting to return to the colors in the event of war or threatened war.

Mr. Garrison proposed to recruit the Continental army territorially, according to population, and to have it subjected to two months' intensive training each year for three years. Officers were to be obtained largely from the national guard, from the regular army list and from the various military bases of regular army officers.

President Wilson was inclined to support the plan advocated by Representative Hay, chairman of the house committee on naval affairs.

The Hay Plan.

Chairman Hay's plan places the main reliance for a reserve on the national guard or organized militia of the several states. Under the Hay plan young men would be encouraged to be in the militia by a system of liberal pay from the federal treasury. Liberal compensation likewise is provided for militia officers.

Under this system Mr. Hay believes the guard would become so popular that it could be recruited from its present personnel of a few more than 120,000 to a number sufficient to meet the situation which Mr. Garrison would care for with his Continental army of 400,000. Provision would be made for the draft of the militia into the federal army in the event of war or its imminence.

Mr. Garrison before his appointment as secretary of war was not much known outside his own state of New Jersey, where he had been on the bench as vice chancellor since 1904.

Garrison a Born Fighter.

Mr. Garrison comes of a race noted for the trait of adherence to their own convictions. His paternal grandfather was a famous country doctor, a sort of dictator in his own sphere; his maternal grandfather was a Presbyterian elder and his father an Episcopal rector. He has abundantly shown as secretary of war that he believed in sticking to his convictions. Consequently his resignation was no surprise to his friends.

Mr. Garrison was born in Camden, N. J., Nov. 28, 1864. He spent one year at Harvard, but at eighteen entered a Philadelphia law office. He was admitted to the bar in Pennsylvania in 1886 and in New Jersey in 1888, when he began practicing law in Camden.

Ten years later he moved to Jersey City, and in 1904 he was appointed vice chancellor by the then Chancellor Magie. Chancellor Pitney, now Supreme Court Justice Pitney, reappointed him in 1911, and he remained on the bench until President Wilson chose him as secretary of war.

As secretary of war Mr. Garrison is credited with having introduced many innovations and reforms, particularly in line with the idea of obtaining more prompt mobilization of the country's resources in time of war. He also announced that he believed in developing the individual authority and initiative, combined with greater responsibility, of commanding officers of all ranks rather than too great dependence upon orders from Washington.

In March, 1915, there were rumors that Mr. Garrison would resign to accept the post of chief justice of the New Jersey supreme court and also that he planned to run either for governor of New Jersey or senator from that state. He was also mentioned for the supreme court justiceship left vacant by the death of Justice Lamar.

MANY CITIES WATCH SNEEZES.

Preparedness Against Sickness Is Simple, but Frequently Neglected.

Seventeen cities and one state, through their health departments, are now enlisted in the "watch your sneeze" campaign recently started by the New York Association For Improving the Condition of the Poor. New York was the first city to enlist and Florida the first and thus far the only state to mark the crusade with its official approval, though in Connecticut a state wide campaign is also under way through the activities of the Connecticut Research association. The other cities are: Baltimore, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Colorado Springs, Amsterdam, Bridgeport, Plainfield, Lynchburg, Schenectady, Paterson, Poughkeepsie, Pueblo, New Britain, Pasadena, South Orange, Jersey City and Sacramento.

"Information is the only ammunition we need in this fight," says Philip S. Platt, who is directing the effort, "and the only information needed is the one simple fact that unsanitary sneezes spread diseases. Preparedness is easy in the anti-sneeze campaign. 'Have a hanky handy.' That is all there is to it. We do not ask people to stop sneezing, but what we do ask is that they sneeze into a handkerchief."

CONVICTS TO CATCH CONVICTS

Honor Prisoners Trail and Capture Two Men Who Escaped.

Two honor convicts who broke their pledges to the state and escaped from San Quentin (Cal.) penitentiary on New Year's day have been chased, captured and returned to prison by two fellow honor convicts who were sent from the construction camp to search for the fugitives, merely giving their word that they would return.

Although accompanied by one of the guards from the camp, the two men, Charles Taggart and Herbert Primrose, were often miles distant from each other. They found their quarry in a cabin in a remote hilly section, where they had taken refuge.

The two men who broke their pledges are Thomas Cowan, serving a five years' sentence from Los Angeles, and Alfred Sanchez, serving five years from Riverside.

Explosion in Aniline Dye Plant.

Plainfield, N. J., Feb. 21.—The plant of the Middlesex Aniline Chemical company, said to be a German-owned concern and one of the few plants manufacturing aniline dyes in this country, was destroyed by an explosion and fire. The entire town of Lincoln, where the plant was located, was shaken by the explosion.

AWAITING WORD FROM BERLIN

Reply to U. S. New Demand Expected Soon.

AWAIT REPLY FROM ALLIES

If Entente Powers Reject Disarmament Proposals This Government Will Stand by Principle of Permitting Defensive Armaments.

Washington, Feb. 21.—Pending receipt of Germany's answer to Secretary Lansing's demand for a modification of the new Teutonic submarine decree, it became more apparent that there is no likelihood of any real break between Secretary Lansing and Count von Bernstorff on the basis of what has already taken place, as a result of the latest submarine developments.

There is no doubt that some administration officials attribute to Count von Bernstorff responsibility for the impression that has gained ground that the United States had definitely committed itself on the question of armed merchantmen. This has been held against the German ambassador for some time.

Many believe the administration had two purposes in passing out the Bernstorff suggestions, one to bring about a tightening of all sources of information in regard to the submarine issue and the other to emphasize before the public the state department's contention that it never had flatly committed itself on the question of disarming merchantmen.

Following the publication of reports that Count von Bernstorff had got into the bad graces of the American government, it was officially denied that Secretary Lansing contemplated calling the ambassador to the state department for an explanation. It was insisted there had been no change in the relations, official or personal, between Secretary Lansing and the ambassador.

Germany's reply to the new demand of the United States is not expected for several days. As the German declaration of intention to sink all armed enemy merchantmen goes into effect on March 1, it is thought probable, however, that a reply will be received before that date. The American government also is looking for some word from Austria before that time.

Meantime the United States also is waiting formal response from the entente powers to the disarmament proposals of Secretary Lansing, although the diplomatic representatives of these powers already have indicated that their governments will reject the suggestions.

In that event, Mr. Lansing explains, the government will stand by the principle of international law permitting defensive armaments.

Surprise in official circles over the delay of the entente powers in sending their formal replies was explained partially when it was learned that the French and Italian ambassadors, not believing that there was any particular cause for haste, did not cable the proposals to their government, but sent them by mail.

Because of its indirect bearing on the pending controversy with Germany, officials are watching with interest the latest developments in connection with the case of the British steamship Appam, which was captured on the high seas by the German raider Moeve, and was sent into Hampton Roads with a German crew in charge.

BOY ACCIDENTALLY KILLED

Finds Revolver When Left to Watch Home and Death Results.

LaFayette, Ind., Feb. 21.—John Louis Lavey, age twelve, accidentally shot and killed himself at the home of his parents. The boy was alone with his young sister and a baby brother. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lavey, the father being an employee of the Monon shors and the mother a hotel employe, both of whom are working to pay a mortgage on the home.

The boy found the revolver in a desk. After the discharge he rushed into the kitchen with blood streaming from a wound in his abdomen and fell dead at the feet of his sister. The bullet had passed entirely through his body and severed the spinal cord.

IN the arena of "Big Business" has appeared a new steel-brained champion, the Master-Model of the Royal—the machine with the rapid-fire action; the typewriter that fires letters as an automatic gun spits bullets!

Unless you are "Royalized," you are paying the price of the Royal without knowing it—besides that of your old-style machine—in the higher cost of your business letters.

Built for "Big Business" and its Great Army of Expert Operators

This master-machine does the work of several typewriters in one—it writes, types cards and bills! The one machine does it all—without any "special" attachments.

Get the Facts!

Send for the "Royal man" and ask for a DEMONSTRATION. Investigate the new machine that takes the "grind" out of typewriting. Or write us direct for our new brochure, "BETTER SERVICE," and book of facts on Touch Typing—with a handsome Color-Photograph of the new Royal Master-Model 10, sent free to typewriter users. ### CHAPTER XVIII

As Alix and Collingford left the dining room she said, "They weren't all butterflies after all. I saw a man and a woman."

"Not really!" said Collingford. "Who?"

"Alan Wayne and Dora Tengel."

At Alan's name Collingford's face lit up with interest. "Ten Percent Wayne, eh? Yes, you're right. He's a man. And Dora Tengel, ex-Lady Braeme. Yes, she's a woman too—in a way."

"Has she a tarnished reputation?"

Collingford stopped short in his stride and looked keenly at Alix. "My dear lady," he said, "that is a question one does not put to a man. However, it doesn't embarrass me to answer it in this case. She has not. What on earth put it into your head?"

"I don't know," said Alix. "Oh, yes I do. I remember. Someone told me once that Alan surrounded himself with tarnished reputations."

Each followed the train of his own thoughts until they reached the pier. Alix did not get out of the cab. She leaned from the window and said good-by. Collingford held her hand and her eyes long, then he turned away and hurried into the elevator.

When Alix got home she sat down and wrote a note to Alan—just a line to tell him that she was ready and wished to see him. He came the following afternoon. At first he was a little awkward, straining just the least too much not to betray his nervousness. But the sight of Alix put him at his ease. She had become a true woman—true in the sense of honor—and she was tempered as steel, but soft with the softness of motherhood. About her there was the peace of an inner shrine. She drew him into it unhesitatingly and he suddenly felt unclean just as he had felt unworthy on that other day when he had recoiled from Nance's loving arms around his neck.

"You're not looking very well, Alan," said Alix when he was seated.

"No, I'm not on the top of the wave just now," replied Alan. "Touch of river fever. It's like memory—a hard thing to shake."

"I'm not trying to shake mine," said Alix calmly. "My memories have made me."

"No wonder you don't quarrel with them," said Alan in frank admiration.

"Alan, when are you going to come back? Don't you ever tire of life as a variety show? Wouldn't you rather have one real steady star in life than a whole lot of tarnished tinsel ones?"

Alan jumped to his feet, stuck his hands in his coat pockets and started walking up and down the somber room. They were in the library. "A steady star," he repeated. "What a find that would be! I've raised many a star on my horizon, Alix, but the longer I look at 'em the more they twinkle back. It's easier to down conscience than to down blood."

"In the end," said Alix, "a man must down blood or it down him—downs him irretrievably. Blood unchecked is just common beast."

"Do you think I don't know it?"

Y. wants to shake hands with me." He spoke almost questioningly.

"I don't know that he wants to, either, my boy. But I do know this. He's a busy man, but there's never a day that he's too rushed to think of you."

Alan stopped and held out his hand. "I am much obliged to you," he said. "I'm sorry I didn't think of it myself. I'm off to his office now, as soon as I've telephoned Switson."

J. Y. received his nephew with outstretched hand. His rugged face was lit up with the rare smile that came to it seldom, for it was the far-flung ripple—the visible expression of a deep commotion.

"I just dropped in, sir," said Alan. "To say good-by. I'm off again to South America. Africa seems to be taking a year off."

They sat and looked at each other for a moment and then J. Y. arose and held out his hand again. "If that's the case," he said, "I won't keep you. Good-by and good luck."

"Good-by, sir," said Alan.

As he reached the door J. Y. spoke again. "Alan," he said, "I'm glad you dropped in."

"I am too, sir," said Alan.

He was just leaving the sedate old office building, sandwiched in between modern towers of Babel, when a cab drew up at the curb. The door opened and a girl stepped out. She suddenly stood still. Alan's eyes were drawn to her and found hers fixed on him. He drew a quivering breath. Clem stood before him. She saw his hesitation and a cloud came over the light in her face. Her moist lips trembled. Their hands met.

"Alan!" she said and he answered, "Clem!"

And so they stood, his eyes fixed in hers that were blue and deep. He felt his soul sinking, sinking into those cooling pools. He did not wish ever to speak again—ever to think again.

And then Clem laughed. Her eyes wrinkled up. There was a gleam of even teeth. The wind blew her furs about her and lit the color in her cheeks. "How solemn we are after three years!" she cried. "Three years, Alan. Aren't you ashamed?"

Alan felt a sense of sudden insulation as though she had deliberately cut the current that had flowed so strongly between them. "I am going away," he stammered weakly and waved at an approaching four-wheeler, piled high with traveling kit and conveyed by his hurried but never flurried servant.

But Clem stuck to her guns. "Really?" she said with a glance at the loaded cab and with arching eyebrows.

"Alan!" She Said, and He Answered, "Clem!"

Then her smile burst again. "You can't expect me to be surprised, can you? We seem to have a habit of meeting when you are on the point of going away. There, you must be in a hurry. Good-by," she said and held out a gloved hand.

Alan's spirit was ever ready for war and this, he suddenly perceived, was war. He braced himself and smiled too. "Twice hardly amounts to a habit," he drawled. He had never drawn to Clem before but then Clem had never before taken up the social rapier with him. "Besides," he went on, "there's a difference. Last time you ran after me."

Clem's smile trembled, steadied itself and then fought bravely back. "Yes," she said, "yes." And then her eyes wavered and wandered. She dropped his hand. "Good-by," she said, the faintest catch in her voice, and hurried away to seek J. Y.

Alan stood and watched her. He felt a sinking within him. "For a mess of pottage," he muttered and then his servant touched his arm anxiously and held out his watch, face up. "You'll never make it, Mr. Wayne."

Alan turned on him but not angrily. "Perhaps not. Switson, and perhaps yes. You may go back to the flat. I'll get along all right." And with that he hurried himself at the cab. "Double fare if you make the Battery in ten minutes," he shouted to the driver and then settled back in the seat to ponder.

PENNSYLVANIA NEARLY READY

Greatest Dreadnaught Preparing For Builders' Trials.

HAS TWELVE 14 INCH GUNS

German Raiders Now Held at Newport News Express Highest Admiration of Most Powerful of All American Battleships—Must Make Twenty-one Knots.

It has been announced by the Newport News Drydock and Steamship Building company that the new superdreadnaught Pennsylvania, which is to be the flagship of the Atlantic fleet and which is 4,000 tons larger than the largest ship of the dreadnaught type ever built for the United States, will leave Newport News for her builders' trials at once. The Pennsylvania is now about 97 per cent completed and if necessary can be made ready for active service within a few weeks.

Powerful as are the new superdreadnaughts Oklahoma and Nevada, the future flagship of Admiral Fletcher is superior to those vessels not only in size, but in armament, for she carries a main battery of twelve fourteen-inch guns as against ten of the same caliber in the main batteries of the Oklahoma and the Nevada. Those ships are of 27,500 tons displacement, whereas the Pennsylvania displaces 31,400 tons.

Twenty-one Knots an Hour.

The Pennsylvania's contract calls for a speed of 21 knots, but it is the hope and expectation of her builders that she will exceed that speed by at least a knot. The Oklahoma, which under her contract was required to make 20.5 knots, exceeded 22 knots in her recent trials off the Maine coast.

A little more than 200 yards from the spot where the Pennsylvania is receiving the finishing touches is the Elder-Dempster liner Appam, captured by a German raider and brought to Newport News as a prize of war by a German crew from the raider. When the Germans got into Newport News the first vessel that they saw was the magnificent new battleship, Lieutenant Berg, the prize commander, and his men did not hesitate to express their admiration for the mighty fighter, which American naval officers declare is to be the equal in battle efficiency of any vessel of the all big gun type afloat.

An idea of the power of the Pennsylvania may be had by a comparison of her broadsides with those of other first line battleships of the dreadnaught type now in the Atlantic fleet or soon to be added to it. The present fleet flagship, the Wyoming, fires from her main battery of twelve twelve-inch guns a broadside of projectiles that weigh about 10,100 pounds. The New York, the flagship of the First division of the fleet, like the Oklahoma, fires from ten fourteen-inch guns a broadside weighing 15,000, whereas a broadside from the twelve fourteen-inch guns of the Pennsylvania will weigh 18,000 pounds, just nine tons.

Looks Like the Oklahoma.

In appearance the Pennsylvania is much like the ships of the Oklahoma class. Like them, she has a single funnel and has her main battery guns mounted in four turrets. In the Oklahoma the guns are mounted three in two turrets and two in the remaining two turrets. There are three guns in each of the Pennsylvania's turrets, which are placed two forward and two aft.

The Wyoming is 554 feet long, the Oklahoma is 575 feet, and the Pennsylvania is 600. The Wyoming has two twenty-one-inch submerged torpedo tubes, whereas the Pennsylvania, like the vessels of the Oklahoma type, has four twenty-one-inch torpedo tubes.

The Arizona, building at the New York navy yard, is a sister ship of the Pennsylvania, but will not be ready for her trial trips until several months after the Pennsylvania is ready to be turned over to the government. It is expected that the Pennsylvania, Oklahoma and Nevada will all be added to the fleet at about the same time. This will necessitate an almost complete realignment of the first line vessels.

The Oklahoma and the Nevada, New York, Texas and present fleet flagship Wyoming are expected to compose the first division, the second division being made up of the Arkansas, Utah, Florida, Delaware and North Dakota, which will give the Atlantic fleet, for the first time in its history, two complete divisions of dreadnaughts.

GETS TROUSERS FOR FOE.

British Air Man Who Lost His Gets New Pair Through German Courtesy.

A new illustration of the amenities of warfare as observed by hostile air men is given in a letter from a German aviator on the western front.

This aviator participated in a combat in which a British aeroplane was shot down and one of the aviators killed. The second was uninjured in person; but, in landing, his trousers were irreparably damaged.

The survivor, the German letter writer, was so distressed that the German aviator mounted an aeroplane and dropped a note into the British lines. An hour later an English flyer appeared, returning the call, and dropped a bundle containing new trousers for his compatriot.

Tender Teeth—the first sign of Pyorrhea

When you brush your teeth, does it feel as though you were brushing against the quick? Do the gums sometimes bleed? This is because pyorrhea has caused the gums to pull away from your teeth, leaving the unenamelled surfaces unprotected.

Your dentist will tell you, if you ask him, that you have gum recession; and that gum recession is caused by pyorrhea.

Unchecked, pyorrhea will warp and shrink and deform the gums. It will break down the bony structure into which the teeth are set—and you will eventually lose them. To save your teeth you will have to begin to fight this dread disease at once.

A specific for pyorrhea has been discovered recently by dental science, and is now offered for daily treatment in Senreco Tooth Paste. Senreco combats the germ of the disease. Its regular use insures your teeth against the attack or further progress of pyorrhea.

But Senreco does more. It cleanses the teeth delightfully. It gives them a whiteness distinctive of Senreco alone. Its flavor is entirely pleasing, and it leaves in the mouth a wonderful sense of coolness and wholesomeness.

Start the Senreco treatment before pyorrhea grips you for good. Details in folder with every tube. A two-ounce tube for 25c is sufficient for 6 weeks' daily treatment. Get Senreco of your druggist today; or send 4c in stamps or coin for sample tube and folder. Address The Senreco Remedies Company 503 Union Central Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

BEST TREATMENT FOR CATARRH

S. S. S. Removes the Cause.

Specialists in Catarrh troubles have agreed that it is an infection of the blood. The laboratories of the S. S. S. Co., at Atlanta, have proven it. Once you get your blood free from impurities—cleansed of the Catarrhal poisons, which it is now a prey to because of its unhealthy state—you will be relieved of Catarrh—the dripping in the throat, hawking and spitting, raw sores in the nostrils, and the disagreeable bad breath. It was caused, in the first place, because your impoverished blood was easily infected. Possibly a slight cold or contact with someone who had a cold. But the point is—don't suffer with Catarrh—it is not necessary. The remedy, S. S. S., discovered over fifty years ago, tested, true and tried, is always obtainable at any drug store. It has proven its value in thousands of cases. It will do so in your case. Get S. S. S. at once and begin treatment. If yours is a long-standing case, be sure to write the Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga., for free expert medical advice. They will tell you how this purely vegetable blood tonic cleanses the impurities from the blood by literally washing it clean. They will prove to you that thousands of sufferers from Catarrh, after consistent treatment with S. S. S., have been freed from the trouble and all its disagreeable features and restored to health and vigor. Don't delay the treatment. Take S. S. S. at once.

PARDON PETITIONS TO BE HEARD TODAY

Strange Case of Nellie Mills, Evansville Girl, Charged with Murder, to be Considered.

MANY THINK HER INNOCENT

George Bennett Sent from Jackson County for Horse Stealing Seeking His Freedom.

(By Dan L. Beebe United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Indianapolis, February 21.—When the state pardon board meets March 20 it will take up for the first time the strange case of Nellie Mills, an Evansville girl who was sentenced to a life term in the women's prison for a murder of which many Evansville people consider her innocent.

Many other new cases will be taken up, it became known today. Among these are the cases of seven "lifers," four of whom were sentenced from Vanderburgh county.

An illiterate note scribbled with pencil by an Evansville woman who remembered Nellie's case brought the case before the board. Those in charge of the girl were asked about her and the story of an orphan girl who never had a chance and who may have been the scapegoat of criminals came to light. The girl is without friends except those made in prison.

Nellie's mother died before the girl could remember her. Her father died when Nellie was ten years old. Reports of state officials say that the girl was not strong enough mentally or physically to make a proper living.

At the age of 16 she drifted into an Evansville house of ill fame.

One night a 15-year old inmate of the resort where Nellie stayed, was murdered. Nellie was convicted of the murder on the evidence of Elsie Ligon another inmate, who also was arrested charged with the murder. The Ligon woman and the man who was with her that night have disappeared.

Nellie maintained at all times she was innocent, and former Sheriff John Davis and a policeman who worked on the case believed her innocent. On conviction she was given a life term by Judge Duncan G. Givens. Evansville opinion was divided at the time.

As an inmate of the women's prison, Nellie has gained the good will and confidence of her keepers. Recently when she was critically ill she continued to claim innocence. She is frail, and in good weather is given outdoor work, but she has proved trustworthy. She is well liked and has been truthful, according to prison reports.

Because there are no friends to appear for the girl, the board probably will make its own investigation, possibly including a visit to the prison to see the unfortunate girl. It was explained that in such cases when the board decided to recommend parole, a suitable place always is found where the released prisoner will be given proper care and an opportunity to earn a proper living.

Nellie was sentenced January 27, 1913.

Members of the board who will consider Nellie's case are Judge A. D. Thomas of Crawfordsville, president; Adolph Seidensticker of Indianapolis, secretary; and James T. Arbuckle of Rushville.

The case of William Walker, sentenced February 29, 1912, for life, from Allen county for wife murder, will be reopened by consent of the board. He strangled his wife, who was a police character, and buried her body and clothing in two graves in his yard. Women of the neighborhood, whose curiosity had been aroused unearthed the body.

Other new cases to come before the March session are:

Charles E. Dixon, sentenced from Marion county, January 22, 1909, 16-20 years, for burglary, to the state prison.

Williams, Herschel, sentenced from Vanderburgh county July 10, 1915, for forgery, to the Indiana reformatory.

Clinton Keeverly (colored) sentenced from Vanderburgh county, October 28, 1912, for life for murder, to the state prison.

Reuben Wheat, sentenced from Knox county, June 23, 1909, for life, for murder, to the state prison. Paroled in June, 1914. Pardon now asked.

Thomas Gooden, sentenced from Jefferson county, July 3, 1913, 2-14 years, for assault and battery to commit felony, to the state prison.

Otto Bateel, sentenced from Vanderburgh county, June 12, 1912, for life, for murder, to the state prison. (Colored.)

Claud Sullivan, sentenced from Knox county, March 1914, for burglary, to the Indiana reformatory.

George Bennett, sentenced from Jackson county, 1-14 years, for larceny, October, 1915, to the Indiana reformatory.

Charles Cox, (colored) sentenced from Vanderburgh county, March 1915, for shooting with intent to kill, to the state prison.

Burt Randolph, sentenced from Tippecanoe county, December 2, 1912, 5-14 years, for robbery, to the Indiana reformatory.

Oscar Lowry, (colored) sentenced from Vanderburgh county, October, 1915, for life, for murder, in the second degree, to the state prison.

Clint Deam, sentenced from Wells county, February 17, 1915, for assault and battery with intent to rape, to the state prison.

John Nicholson, sentenced from Dubois county, January 5, 1914, for arson, to the state prison.

William Walker, sentenced from Allen county, February 29, 1912, for life, for murder in the second degree, to the state prison.

MARCH 1 IS LAST DAY FOR FILING INCOME TAX RETURNS

Internal Revenue Collector Calls Attention to 50 Per Cent Penalty For Delinquents.

Peter J. Krueyer, internal revenue collector for this district, says that there is a real danger for individuals and corporations who fail to file their income tax returns on or before March 1. Little more than one week remains.

"The returns are coming in very slowly," said Mr. Krueyer. "Those who fail to make the proper returns under the law must be penalized in the sum of 50 per cent and will also be subject to prosecution."

The question of prosecution is not optional with the revenue department, according to Mr. Krueyer, and those who are delinquent may be dealt with severely. Mr. Krueyer says that good service can be given at this time, while this can not be assured later in the month.

THE PROOF OF THE PUDDING IS IN THE EATING

What the sick want is to get well. They do not care whether they are cured by the most scientific physician or the most unlearned neighbor—they don't care how they are cured, if only they get well.

For forty years women suffering from female ills have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and have been getting well; and because they have got well, that great medicine continues to have a sale equalled by that of few proprietary preparations.

NAMES OF PETIT JURORS FOR FEBRUARY TERM ARE DRAWN

J. H. Andrews, A. J. Brodhecker and County Clerk Willard Stout Conduct Drawing.

J. H. Andrews and A. J. Brodhecker, jury commissioners, met at the court house today with County Clerk Willard Stout and drew the names for the petit jury for the next term of court which begins February 28. Fifteen names were drawn. As this county has but one grand jury session during the year, in the fall, the names of the grand jurors are not made public as they will not be called upon except in an emergency case.

The list of petit jurors follows: Frank Darlage, Brownstown; George Black, Owen; John G. McFall, Vernon; James Mann, Owen; John Hageman, Washington; William H. Holtman, Driftwood; William H. Coffman, Jackson; Smith Sayers, Vernon; E. S. Stanfield, Jackson; George Mitchner, Jackson; John Schornick, Brownstown; August Cordes, Sr., Jackson; M. A. Barick, Jackson; I. W. Burcham, Brownstown; James Ault, Salt Creek.
